

Nephilim Among Us

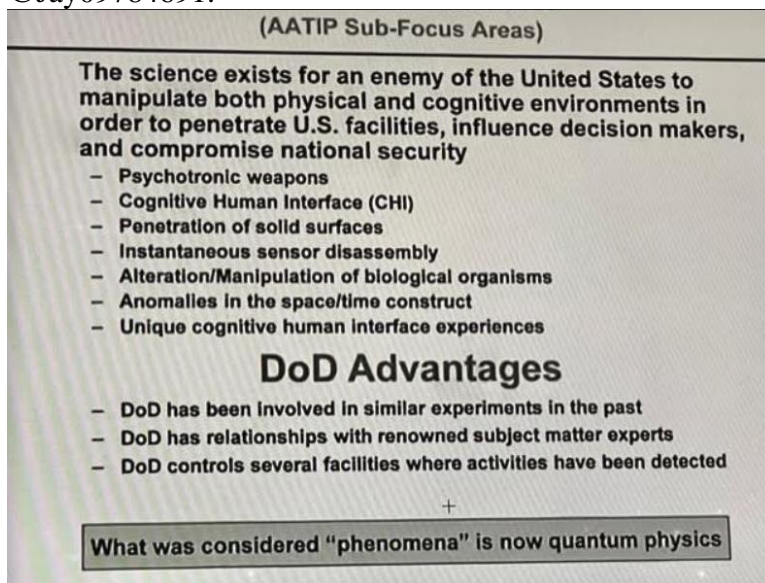

Modern Day Giants

David R. Fashenpour

Chapter 4:

The Phenomenon

Something wicked this way comes! A mysterious presence, referred to as a “phenomenon” by the military, has made itself known. The Department of Defense (DoD) Slide #9, titled “AATIP Sub-Focus Areas,” outlines the potential threat posed by this phenomenon; this slide acknowledges that the phenomenon has the capability to manipulate both physical and cognitive environments. This manipulation could enable it to breach U.S. facilities, influence decision-makers, and jeopardize national security. On August 9, 2018, Keith Basterfield uncovered this official DoD disclosure, which came to public attention via Twitter user @Jay09784691.

What was considered “phenomena” is now quantum physics

DOD BRIEFING SLIDE #9

This phenomenon appears to possess unique characteristics—it seems to defy the laws of Newtonian Physics and instead operates in accordance with the principles of Quantum Physics (Reference Slide #9). However, labeling it under the framework of Quantum Physics may be imprecise, as our current understanding of those principles remains incomplete. It's possible that this phenomenon operates at a level beyond the physical—similar to UFO/UAP craft and SABER androids. It might even be interdimensional in nature. The enigma surrounding the numerous unusual events occurring worldwide could originate from the supernatural realm, inhabited by angelic beings and perhaps even demons.

Why is the Military concerned?

The military does not acknowledge the paranormal realm—with its ghosts, goblins, and shadow people that supposedly inhabit it—but they will be the first to admit they do not know what they are dealing with! That is what makes the phenomenon of grave interest and ripe for so much speculation.

Indeed, the military is deeply concerned about the actions of the entity or entities responsible for the phenomenon. They believe that someone or something possesses the ability to manipulate both physical and cognitive environments, allowing them to infiltrate U.S. facilities, exert influence over decision-makers, and jeopardize national security.

The DoD's concerns include:

- Psychotronic Weapons: These assume that an energy or force can emanate from organisms and affect physical matter.

- Cognitive Human Interface (CHI): This concept involves the integration of physical and cognitive aspects in human-machine interfaces.
- Penetration of Solid Surfaces: The ability to pass through walls, windows, and so on, without causing any disruption.
- Instantaneous Sensor Disassembly: The immediate separation of components of complex instruments.
- Alternation/Manipulation of Biological Organisms: The reorganization of organic material to create new organisms.
- Anomalies in the Space/Time Construct: The ability to manipulate components of the Space and Time Continuum.
- Unique CHI Experiences: Instances of success and failure using designated CHI integrated interfaces.

These concerns, as itemized by military planners, lead to the question: Why? Why is the military categorizing these specific issues? It doesn't require an expert to conclude that the DoD is assessing a significant threat, and one could speculate that the source of this threat is the phenomenon itself. Thus, this phenomenon must possess the capability to time travel (or at least traverse dimensions), move through surfaces, become invisible, emit forces affecting matter, disable sensors, reshape organic material, and interface with hybrid forms of machine and organism, all while maintaining similar forms, shapes, and structures.

Could this phenomenon be the creation of interdimensional beings, akin to the SABER entities but considerably more powerful and sentient? Does the phenomenon exhibit characteristics aligned with those of supernatural entities, not merely spying on targets of interest (such as nuclear capabilities) but rather tormenting those targets to instill fear of an impending ominous threat, thereby diverting attention from a greater scheme?

It has been alleged that this phenomenon can manipulate nuclear missiles, turning them on and off, affecting both American and Russian missiles. Pilots have reported encountering strange beacons along their daily flight paths: observation platforms appearing as dark cubes precisely placed inside clear spheres—seemingly monitoring training exercises and relocating with pilots when they deploy to combat zones. While some may be familiar with the Tic-tac incidents in the Pacific near San Diego, involving retired Navy Cmdr. David Fravor, other occurrences like the interference with an Intercontinental Ballistic Missile (ICBM) launch resulting in self-destruction are less widely known. Instances of disabling recording devices, cameras, telescopes, radiation detectors, and other electronic instruments precisely when needed to record the phenomenon are also attributed to it. This phenomenon appears to be engaged in far more than merely collecting genetic material.

So, who or what is responsible for this phenomenon? The DoD has repeatedly stated, “We do not know what this phenomenon is, and we do not know where it came from.” Could this herald the return of the Watchers from ancient times? Are they here to complete the Seed War and ultimately destroy God’s perfect creation? If you were a Watcher entering town with the aim of corrupting God’s creation, what would you do? How about creating Nephilim from human DNA and integrating the half-breeds into society? Perhaps distracting the authorities and deceiving the “sons of man” until it’s time to declare war?

The Lord's Punishment of the Watchers

THE WATCHER: AZAZYEL

Azazyel, one of the Watcher leaders, received a specific punishment from the Lord, who instructed the angel Raphael to bind Azazyel hand and foot, cast him into darkness, and open a desert in Dudael to confine him there. The Lord also decreed that “hurled and pointed stones” should be thrown upon him, covering him in darkness.

Enoch, referred to as “the Scribe” by both the Watchers and the Lord, received instructions on how to handle the giants, the Nephilim. He commanded that they be incited to mutual slaughter, resulting in their demise, and decreed that the Watchers be bound for seventy generations beneath the earth until the day of judgment, when their effect would last forever.

- “Go to the reprobates, to the children of fornication, the offspring of the Watchers, from among men; bring them forth, and excite (send) them one against another. Let them perish by mutual slaughter; for length of days shall not be theirs.”
- “...bind them for seventy generations underneath the earth, even to the day of judgement, and of consummation, until the judgement, the effect of which will last for ever, be completed.”
- “Then the Lord said to me: Enoch, scribe of righteousness, go tell the Watchers of Heaven, who have deserted the lofty sky, and their holy everlasting station, who have been polluted with women.”
- They “... shall lament for the destruction of their sons; and shall petition for ever; but shall not obtain mercy and peace.”

It appears that Watchers cannot be killed but can only be restrained underground, necessitating the overcoming of their supernatural powers to constrain them through the Great Flood and countless eons. The Great Flood was a purification event initiated by God to eliminate not only the Nephilim, who are mortal, but also the remnants of the population tainted by Nephilim genetics. It served as a reset, reverting to God’s perfect creation and pristine DNA. However, the underground prisons may not have endured the test of time, and the immortal Watchers with supernatural abilities may have managed to escape.

Are the Nephilim Among Us?

THEY ARE IN PLAIN SIGHT

Perhaps they are on the move again, reigniting the Seed War with God to complete the destruction of His perfect creation. What initially seemed like innocent human abductions, where some Zeta Greys were extracting human reproductive material, might have drawn the attention of the Watchers. What if the Watchers devised a more sinister plan, exponentially increasing the number of abductions from hundreds per year to hundreds per month? What if they aimed to create thousands of half-breed Nephilim children each week, all while crafting a cover story involving half-breed Zetas?

Furthermore, if these hybrid Watcher children closely resembled humans, they could seamlessly integrate into the world's population. If the human look-alikes were created perfectly, along with a flawless integration plan, they would become permanent members of the global populace, indistinguishable from humans. Modern-day Nephilim would be walking among us.

The question arises: What is more perilous, disabling a missile or saturating our nation with demon hybrids to fulfill the Watchers' bidding? It's essential to realize that the "missile thing" serves as a diversion to shift our focus away from the kidnapping of our citizens and sexual assault against their wills, which is contrary to our core principles. While we are occupied with snapping pictures of saucers, cigars, and triangles in the sky—watching our phone batteries drain, while marveling at these magnificent sights—individuals like John Doe are forcibly subjected to invasive medical examinations, including the extraction of semen using electrical prods, for obviously nefarious purposes. We remain captivated by these visual distractions—oblivious to the horrifying truth.

One avenue to explore to confront this issue is the dissemination of knowledge that sperm and ovum theft is a reality and that the production of hybrids is underway. However, this education task is exceptionally challenging due to eight decades of ridicule and shame directed at "conspiracy theorists," all while obscuring the truth. The truth can indeed set us free, but convincing people to listen—let alone believe—amid a sea of misinformation, government propaganda, and censorship is a daunting task. We seem destined to remain unaware of what certain entities do not want us to know, especially if we are content to consume sanctioned narratives while ignoring the rest.

What can we do to Help Win the War?

Because of individuals like you!—there is hope. In the next chapter, we will outline what needs to be done, with a potential solution involving our faith in God to make it difficult for The Dragon to succeed.

We must vocalize the questions (out loud): “Are we contending with malevolent entities from a dimension beyond a thin veil?” “Are these truly extradimensional creatures, long-standing adversaries of humanity, or something else entirely?”

The SABER androids do not appear real: they are translucent, capable of floating and passing through walls. If they originate from another plane, we must inquire: “by whom and for what purpose?” The military echoes these questions.

The phenomenon appears almost god-like: possessing knowledge of our secrets, codes, and destinations before we even decide. This has alarmed the military, as Cmdr. Fravor can attest. Fortunately, this force has primarily acted in self-defense, engaging in destructive actions only when provoked. The one negative incident involved the interference with a test ICBM launch, leading to self-destruction, was via our own self-destruct switch. Should we be afraid?

If this phenomenon has any connection to the immortal Watchers, we should indeed be fearful. If it represents an entity that has roamed Earth for eternity, then perhaps we can find solace. If it is unrelated to the SABER androids, then there must be another creator and programmer at play, with their own agenda for hybridizing humans. This is a riveting mystery!
